Hi Steven,

I'll call you at 3pm then. Is that Eastern or Central time?

Hi Mr. Moser,

Although we can certainly discuss, our call will likely be unproductive. The problem for us, in addition to our other objections, is that we genuinely don't have an easy way to pull historical job posts. Pulling them is in fact very labor-intensive and time-consuming. On the other hand, BBB can request its own account information as described in our response letter, and BBB would then receive all of its account history.

If you'd still like to discuss, I can call you any time that works for you today after 1:15pm CST / 2:15pm EST. Please provide me a time and a phone number to reach you.

Please advise if Indeed's position is open for discussion. I'd be happy to speak with you next week regarding this matter in a good faith effort to resolve the subpoena without court intervention.

Andie

Thank you for this information. The subpoena was also emailed to Indeed on November 22, 2021, so that Indeed had actual notice of the subpoena since that date. Finally, the designated agent is not CT Corporation, but the Secretary of State.

While I understand that CT did not receive a physical copy until 2/3/2022, there has been no explanation as to the delay between the November 22, 2021 email and your response.

FYI according to Bed Bath & Beyond they have been unable to locate any job descriptions for any new york positions. Considering that your own terms and conditions indicate that such job descriptions/postings are public information, I hope that you reconsider at least some of your objections.

Regards,

Mr. Moser,

As you'll see in the attached document, Indeed's agent for service of process, CT Corporation, received your subpoena on February 7, 2022. Indeed responded seven days later, on February 14, 2022.

Your letter of March 2, 2022, references an enclosure of "Affidavit of Service of Subpoena," but the affidavit you provided appears unrelated to this matter.

To your question, the place of compliance is our headquarters in Austin, Texas.

Indeed stands by all objections.
